

Important Tax Information About Thrift Savings Plan Death Benefit Payments

Before you receive a death benefit from the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), you should review the important information in this notice. Although the TSP can assist you in receiving your payment, we cannot provide tax advice. Because tax rules are complex, you may wish to speak with a tax advisor before you make any decisions that might have tax consequences.

1. Income Tax Withholding and Reporting

Contributions to the TSP are generally tax-deferred. This means the participant did not pay taxes on his or her own contributions, any agency contributions, or earnings. As a consequence, you will owe taxes when you receive a death benefit payment from a TSP account. We report all TSP distributions to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), and to you, on IRS Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc.

We must withhold for Federal income tax from payments we make unless the beneficiary is allowed to request that there be no withholding. The Federal income tax withholding and rollover rules that apply to a death benefit payment depend upon whether the payment is made to the surviving spouse or to someone else.

The chart at the bottom of this page describes these rules; it also shows the withholding rate and whether you can change or waive the withholding amount. If you want to change the standard withholding election, you must file IRS Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments, with the TSP before the death benefit payment is disbursed.

We do not withhold for state or local income tax. However, on IRS Form 1099-R, we do report all TSP distributions to your state of residence at the time of the payment (if that state has an income tax). You may need to pay state and local income tax on your payment. Your tax advisor or state or local tax officials can explain any potential tax obligations.

2. Transferring or Rolling Over a Death Benefit Payment Made to a Surviving Spouse

If you are a surviving spouse, you may be able to ask the TSP to transfer all or a portion of your death benefit payment to a traditional individual retirement account (IRA) or to an eligible employer plan. If you receive the death benefit payment directly,

* If you are receiving death benefit payments from both a civilian TSP account and a uniformed services TSP account, you must submit a separate IRS Form W-4P for each payment.

 Applies to payments of $200 or more received in a single year.

you may be able to deposit (roll over) the payment into your IRA or plan yourself.

A traditional IRA is any IRA that is not a Roth IRA, a SIMPLE IRA, or an education IRA.

An eligible employer plan includes a plan qualified under section 401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, such as a section 401(k) plan, profit-sharing plan, defined benefit plan, stock bonus plan, and money purchase plan; a section 403(a) annuity plan; a section 403(b) tax-sheltered annuity; a section 457(b) plan maintained by a governmental employer; and the TSP.

No IRA or eligible employer plan is required to accept a transfer or rollover. Before you decide to transfer or roll over your payment, you should find out whether your IRA or plan accepts transfers or rollovers and whether the IRA or plan has a minimum amount it will accept.

If you are a surviving spouse and you have your own TSP account from which you are not receiving monthly payments, you may roll over — or ask the TSP to transfer — the death benefit payment into your TSP account.

If you choose to have the TSP transfer all or part of the death benefit payment:

- Your transfer will not be taxed in the current year, and no income tax will be withheld.
- Your payment will be taxed when you withdraw it from the traditional IRA or the eligible employer plan.
- The tax treatment and plan rules for withdrawals from the plan to which you transfer the distribution may be different from those of the TSP.

If the TSP pays a death benefit payment directly to you, and you subsequently decide to do a “rollover”:

- You will receive only 80% of the taxable amount of the payment because we are required to withhold 20% for Federal income tax.
- Your full payment will be taxed in the current year if you do not complete the rollover within 60 days of receiving the payment from the TSP.
- You can roll over all or part of the payment to your IRA or plan. The amount rolled over will not be taxed until you take it out of the IRA or plan. However, if you want to roll over 100% of the payment, you must replace the 20% that was withheld with your own funds. If you roll over only the portion you received, you will be taxed on the 20% that was withheld and not rolled over.
- The tax treatment and plan rules for withdrawals from the plan to which you roll over the distribution may be different from those of the TSP.

3. Special Note Regarding Uniformed Services Accounts

TSP accounts for members of the uniformed services may include contributions from pay that is subject to the combat zone tax exclusion. That pay, earned in a combat zone, is exempt from Federal income tax. Consequently, TSP contributions from that pay are also tax-exempt. However, the earnings on those contributions are taxable when they are distributed. Therefore, if you receive a payment from an account that has tax-exempt contributions, the TSP will report the tax-exempt portion separately on IRS Form 1099-R.

TSP tax-exempt contributions that are part of a payment to a spouse may be transferred or rolled over into a traditional IRA or transferred into certain eligible employer plans only if the IRA or plan certifies that it will accept tax-exempt contributions. If the IRA or plan does not accept tax-exempt money, that amount will be paid directly to you.

Tax-exempt contributions in a uniformed services TSP account may not be transferred into your own civilian TSP account if you have one.

4. Ten-Year Tax Option

If the participant was born before January 2, 1936, you may be eligible to calculate the amount of the tax on the death benefit payment by using the 10-year tax option, which will often reduce the tax you owe. To learn more, see IRS Publication 575, Pension and Annuity Income, and IRS Form 4972, Tax on Lump Sum Distributions.

5. Rules for Nonresident Aliens or the Beneficiaries of Nonresident Aliens

Special tax withholding rules apply to payments the TSP makes to nonresident aliens and beneficiaries of nonresident aliens. To learn more, see the TSP tax notice “Tax Treatment of Thrift Savings Plan Payments to Nonresident Aliens and Their Beneficiaries.”
